Borrowing is likely for tax agencies

EVA MARIE CHASE

By HARRY BARNES
Press-Record Staff Writer
Possibility that Quad-City taxing agencies may be forced to borrow money to continue operations through the 1976 summer months developed last week as prospects dimmed for any early solution to countywide assessment problems. Tax collections under the county's previous assessment and tax extension procedures normally begin in late May or early June, providing tax revenue for tax bodies such as cities, school districts, park districts, the county and others. There appears little likelihood of such a schedule this year.

The problem grows out of efforts by the county's assessment system to comply with a new state law requiring that an overall county assessment ratio of 33.13 per cent be established. To do so, county assessment officials have approved substantial increases on the valuation of county farmland—and have met organized opposition by rural landowners.

According to James Barton, superintendent of assessments, farmland in recent years has been assessed by township assessors at ratios as low as 17 per cent, or about half the amount of ratio of fair cash value established for most urban townships, such as Granite City, Nameoki, Venice and Chouteau Townships.

For example, Barton said, the fair cash value ratio of Granite City Township was 37.5 per cent.

for the 1973 tax year, the last year for which ratio figures are available. The ratio in Venice Township was 49 per cent for the same year.

This means, he said, that Madison County taxpayers cost Granite City taxpayers twice the amount that it cost rural taxpayers, and Venice Township taxpayers almost two and a half times as much.

Because of this, Barton explained, it was logical to begin readjustment of the county's overall assessment ratios by increasing the ratios of rural townships which ranged, for the most part, from 17 to 19 per cent of fair cash value.

Opposition by rural landowners to valuation increases has resulted in a class suit filed in circuit court at Edwardsville to challenge the legality of the county's right to make unilateral assessment changes.

Other rural landowners are expected to join in the suit and unless an early court decision is made, completion of assessments in the rural townships will be delayed.

In addition, individual applications by rural landowners for hearings by the Madison County Board of Review have been filed in such numbers as to create a backlog that may take the review board many months to complete hearings.

Barton said Friday that the review board in its present session has completed 650 hearings, or about one-third of the number filed, with more applications coming in at the rate of 50 to 60 hearing petitions per day.

Barton said 57 applications for hearings were filed Thursday.

'Bogus' airport claims cited in report to U.S.

"The Missouri position paper devotes considerable effort to creating a smokescreen of bogus legal issues, in the hope of obscuring factual and economic reasons strongly favoring approval of the Columbia-Waterloo airport application."

This and many other assertions are part of a 25-page document filed Friday in Washington with U. S. Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman Jr. on the final day of his scheduled decision in "60 to 90 days" on the airport issue.

These favoring expansion of Lambert Airport in Missouri and opposing an Illinois site presented a 45-page brief to the secretary. Each side was given seven days to comment on the other's assertions.

Arven H. Saunders, executive director of the St. Louis Metropolitan Area Airport Authority whose five-member Illinois board would be expanded to include five Missourians — outlined his meeting with Coleman in a press conference Saturday.

He related saying that "proposals to improve Lambert Field to serve the long-range needs of St. Louis as a major hub aviation center fall on all four of the basic areas of public policy that were identified in the issue paper as being fundamental to the upcoming decision on the airport question."

The issue paper had been drawn up by the Department of Transportation (DOT) to aid Coleman in his decision.

The SLMAAA is seeking site approval and funding of land acquisition costs. It does not ask for a decision on construction at this time.

Saunders continued, "The review and analysis covering every point raised at Sec. Coleman's Jan. 13 public hearing constitute a legal requirement of the Authority in connection with its application for site approval.

"The application was forwarded by the Federal Aviation Administration to the secretary's predecessor in December 1973 with a recommendation for approval and introduction of new technology, some of which is not even on the drawing boards."

"The Authority's technical consultant — the only man who has developed a widely used microwave landing system such as envisioned by Parsons — estimates that the odds against Parsons being correct on technology are 1,000 to 1."

"The Parsons plan would create noise pollution problems that could affect 165,000 people in the Lambert area, who potential damage claims and 1980s, even with the Parsons improvements.

"The problem is compounded by fatal defects in the Parsons proposals which rule them out on technological, environmental and economic grounds. The Parsons plan rests on successful development and introduction of new technology, some of which is not even on the drawing boards."

"The Authority's technical consultant — the only man who has developed a widely used microwave landing system such as envisioned by Parsons — estimates that the odds against Parsons being correct on technology are 1,000 to 1."

"The Parsons plan would create noise pollution problems that could affect 165,000 people in the Lambert area, who potential damage claims and costs of over $700,000,000 based on actual court cases and experiences at other airports."

Saunders asserted, "Increased air pollution generated by greater use of Lambert under the Parsons plan would put the St. Louis area in further violation of the nation's environmental protection laws."

Appointments to fill 2 council vacancies

The death last week of Robert E. "Mickey" Robertson, alderman of the Fourth Ward and a former Granite City mayor for three terms, leaves a second vacancy on the 14-member Granite City Council and is expected to step up the urgency for appointments to fill the vacant posts.

The other vacancy was created by the death of Walter F. Nomm, a veteran City Council member of 32 years as alderman of the Fifth Ward, on Jan. 7.

Funeral services for Mr. Robertson were held at 1 p.m. Friday at a Granite City funeral home. Burial was in Sunset Hill Cemetery.

Vacancies in two aldermanic posts leaves the council precariously close to the minimum of ten votes needed to give final passage to any ordinance at issue in council sessions, particularly since several other council members frequently work night shifts and sometimes are unable to attend meetings.

To give final passage to an ordinance the council first must suspend the rules to place the bill on final passage. That action requires a two-thirds majority vote, or a minimum of ten votes. If the motion to suspend the rules fails to receive the required ten votes, the bill must be placed on first reading (requiring a minimum of eight votes) and lay over until the next council meeting when they way to the great city beyond."

With two vacancies on the council and the possibility of several absences in any given council session, the council's ability to give final passage to any ordinance is lessened. This particularly is true if the ordinance is controversial and likely to result in one of more dissenting votes.

The vacancies may be filled by appointment by Mayor Paul Schuler, subject to confirmation by the council.

The vacancies also hamper committee activities. Mr. Robertson, for example, was chairman of the Pollution Plant Committee which spearheaded activity for construction of Granite City's Secondary sewage treatment plant and consequently one of the most active council committees in recent years.

Mr. Robertson also served on the Street and Alley Committee. Mr. Nomm was chairman of the council's Intergovernmental Committee and a member of the City Buildings Committee.

New official lives outside city limits

An ordinance to officially establish the office of assistant street superintendent in Granite City and confirm the appointment to that post of James Stack Jr., 3300 Wilshire Drive, is scheduled for approval during the regular City Council meeting tonight.

Stack, 28, was appointed to the newly-created office last week by Mayor Paul Schuler. The appointment was confirmed unanimously by City Council members on the recommendation of Alderman Clyde Boyd, chairman of the Street and Alley Committee.

While several persons questioned last week the legality of appointing a city official who lives outside the city limits, Mayor Schuler said the council has the authority to make such a provision in the ordinance and that the ordinance scheduled for action tonight will make that provision. Several city appointees do not live in the city.

"It is necessary, however, to go outside the city sometimes to find men who meet the qualifications we are seeking in an employee," the mayor said. Stack's residence at 3300 Wilshire Drive is just outside the Granite City limits and is in Nameoki Township.

Some city officials noted that Stack has lived at the Wilshire Drive address only a short time, and that prior to that he was a lifelong resident of Granite City. He is the son of Mr. and

Fumes fatal to two

Carbon monoxide fumes are believed to have caused the deaths of Eva Marie (Clutter) Chase, 19, of 21 Moorland Drive, Mitchell, and David L. David, 27, of 1812 August Ave., on Saturday.

They were seated in a parked auto on the Merchants Dispatch Transportation Corp. Road, six-tenths of a mile north of Franko Lane near Mitchell.

A Madison County sheriff's department spokesman said the bodies were discovered by deputies who were investigating a report from a Mitchell railroad tower worker that an auto had been parked for a long period of time near Old Alton Road, and that there appeared to be two persons inside of the vehicle.

The spokesman said carbon monoxide poisoning was apparent since the car's ignition switch was in an "on" position and the auto's gas tank was empty. There was no evidence of foul play he said.

Madison County Deputy Coroner Ed Werner pronounced the two dead at 2:45 p.m. Saturday, and authorities believe they may have been overcome by fumes 12 or more hours earlier. An inquest will be held.

Miss Chase was born in Granite City and was a lifelong Quad-City area resident.

She graduated from Granite City High School North in 1975, and had been employed for the past month as a cashier at the Camelot Music Center in the St. Clair Square Shopping Center, Fairview Heights.

Miss Chase attended Niedringhaus Grade School here, and while a high school student worked during summer vacations for the past three years in the Granite City Boy Scouts of America office.

Survivors include her mother, Mrs. Betty Henry of Granite

Wide optimism in Venice near turn of the century

(Tenth of a Bicentennial year Press-Record series)
Venice history spans most of the nation's two-century past, and the municipality itself dates back to 1873.

By 1906, the City of Venice had grown to 5,000 population—matching or exceeding that of today. Its mayor was Dr. J. W. Scott, who served until 1911. The township supervisor was Pearl Smith, destined to serve in that position until 1937.

Venice school president was Fred Kohl, who was destined to remain in the post until 1930. And the school superintendent was J. E. Proctor, who held that position until 1939.

A 1908 view of Venice relates that it is situated "on the eastern bank of the Father of Waters (Mississippi River), just at the mouth of the Merchants' Bridge, which leads into the business section of the great western metropolis, St. Louis."

"Venice is one of the most flattering examples of American spirit and enterprise, the result of sturdy combat with the erring channels of the great river by its early settlers, when hope of ever rescuing the American Bottoms from the ravages of water was despaired of."

"Its steady increase in population, its progress from a little hamlet to become an incorporated city, the building of paved streets and highways, the establishment here of great manufacturing, the entry and crossing of railways on their way to the great city beyond."

"Adoption of the most advanced modern methods of street lighting, and its achievement, too, as an important river port all indicate its fitness for the position, to which as a city it has and continues to make steady advances."

Partney to renew flat salary demand

A resolution is to be introduced to the Madison County Board Feb. 18 by Dan Partney, board member from Granite City, calling for County Board members to receive a flat $5,000 per year salary, rather than per diem fees for each meeting attended, plus mileage and expenses.

Partney estimated the change could save the county about $45,000 per year. He has the support of board member Louis Whitsell of Nameki Township, but it is expected they will be the only two who will vote in favor of the flat salary plan.

Partney compiled total per diem pay, mileage and expenses received by the 28 county board members last year, and said it totaled $184,276, excluding the chairman's pay.

Board Chairman Nelson Hagauer of Granite City receives a $15,000 per year salary, plus mileage. He collected $16,170 last year.

Partney said he does not intend to change the method of paying the chairman, but feels placing board members on a flat salary would help members attending numerous committee meetings which he calls "do-nothing meetings."

"The county is at the mercy of the committee chairman who can call a meeting anytime they want, and all of the members who attend get paid for that meeting. They get paid even if they do not have a quorum," he explained.

No official action can be taken at a committee meeting unless a quorum is present.

Partney attempted to introduce the same resolution on the floor of the board meeting last month, but was turned down on a 23 to two vote, with only him and Whitsell voting in favor of allowing the resolution to be read.

Partney noted that only three board members made less than $5,000 last year and some made more than $8,000. Partney made $3,794 last year while Whitsell made $7,000.

Michael Pellegrini of Collinsville was the lowest in pay with $2,086, but Pellegrini was ill much of the year. Partney was second lowest. The only other board members who earned less than the proposed $5,000 flat salary were James Hill of Alton with $4,751, and Roger Elbie of Wood River at $4,575.

J. J. Gramlich of Highland was the highest paid board member during the year at $9,392 with H. Jack Frandsen of Alhambra second with $8,838.

Others in the highest paid 10 were Herbert Milton of Granite City at $8,141, Homer Henke of Moro at $8,070, Edward D. Vroman of Alton at $8,048, William Webb of Granite City at $7,981, Paul Reibold of Troy at $7,727, Homer Boothman of Collinsville at $7,700, William L. Little of Alton at $7,552, and Arthur "Cooper" Moore of Madison with $7,465.

Other board members received: Margaret L. May, Alton, $7,276; Jay D. Maurer, Venice, $7,218; Whitsell, $7,024; Hays Mallory, Edwardsville, $6,408; Fred Dalton, Collinsville, $6,375; and Michael Semanin, Maryville, $6,248.

Also, Frances M. Roberts, Alton, $6,229; Anthony Boisch, Wood River, $6,093; James E. Greene, East Alton, $6,028; Wayne Bridgewater, Roxana, $5,953; Walter "Dick" Sparks, Chouteau Township, $5,865; Charles Bode, Edwardsville, $5,860; Donald Parish, Godfrey, $5,735; and Verle L. Miller, Cottage Hills, $5,650.

The combined salaries and expense payments averaged $6,578 for each board member, $1,578 higher than Partney's proposed $5,000 salary, which, he contends, is the reason he is having difficulty having the board approve the flat salary plan.

Partney told the board at last month's meeting that they had cut the budgets in every county department due to this year's financial crunch, and they should be willing to accept equal cuts in their own pay.

Partney said the board members cut the appropriation for the county board members to $126,000 for this fiscal year. "But what good is that going to do unless they cut down on the number of meetings?" he asked.

"There are just as many meetings now as last year and the members are traveling just as far and collecting the same expense reimbursements, so it is only logical that spending for County Board members this year will be about the same as last year, $184,276."

Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett, a candidate for governor in the March 16 Democratic primary, criticized his opponent, the incumbent governor, last week for "irresponsible budgeting and high spending."

Addressing the DuPage County Bankers' Association dinner in Itasca, Howlett said as governor he would assemble a talented, professional budget staff and listen to it instead of "high-priced political advisers."

"In government, as in business and in the home, the only way to financial success is to live within your means," said Howlett. "You don't spend more than you have. And you don't plan ahead to spend more than you are coming in."

The state has spent $903 million more than it took in since July 1, 1975, in the general fund.

"On Dec. 30, our cash balance in the general fund was only $12 million, less than half the average daily demand."

"Comptroller George W. Lindberg reported we are accumulating a backlog of unpaid bills."

"We must do more than talk economy. We must practice it."

"My record, after 15 years in office, has earned me recognition for economy and efficiency—responsibility in budgeting and caution in spending."

"My opponent's record, after three years in office, has identified him with irresponsible budgeting and the highest spending in Illinois history."

"In the three years since his election, the incumbent Governor has increased the budget by $3,294,000,000."

"His budget for the current fiscal year called for an increase of $2,864,000,000 over last year. That's a single-year increase of more than a third."

"Even after subtracting his subsequent reduction, he asked

"They can cut their budget all they want, but it doesn't mean a thing. The extra money will just have to come out of contingencies," Partney noted.

He admits his plan would cost $140,000 and would exceed the $126,000 budget, but still would be nearly $45,000 cheaper than continuing the present system at its present level.

He said he was angry after being told time after time that the board could not legally change its method of paying board members and then finding out last month that the law was changed and it has been legal for several months.

The Madison County state's attorney's office ruled last year that the board could not alter the way in which members were paid until after the county is reappointed in 1980.

He then discovered a law passed in September, allowing counties to change the method of paying members.

He criticized the board's legislative committee for not making other board members aware of the law.

Whitsell supported Partney at the board meeting, saying he did not feel it was fair that they had not been told of the change in the law.

Partney said he fought for one year to get the county board to stop doing business with one firm until it paid its back taxes. He said he finally succeeded in stopping the county from doing business with the firm and the back taxes were paid.

"I was not very popular with my fellow board members on that one, but I persisted and I won. I am even less popular with the board on the salary issue, but I intend to keep fighting and try to get the board to change to a flat salary, rather than continue to collect per diem payments, mileage and expenses for a lot of meetings that we do not need," he added.

He said he does not believe the board will pass the salary plan this month, but said he will "continue to exert every kind of pressure I can in the coming months to get board members to change, because I know that is what the taxpayers want," he explained.

Howlett cites state's backlog of unpaid bills for a $2,564,000,000 increase in spending authority for this year alone.

"Revenue from all sources has never increased by more than $970 million a year without a tax increase."

"This kind of budgeting is a blueprint for bankruptcy. No responsible chief executive would recommend a spending increase knowing that revenue would not increase even half as much."

"The budget was purposely designed to exhaust all the state's financial resources. Our people don't deserve fiscal brinkmanship."

"As governor, I will not tolerate irresponsible budgeting."

"I am a professional administrator. I have worked with budgets all my life. I know how to budget and how to live within a budget," Howlett said.

Coolcon funds authorized
Cong. Melvin Price (Dem., 23rd Ill.) reported last week that an additional $50,000,000 authorization for the Coolcon plant at New Athens, is included in the new federal budget for the fiscal year 1977 starting Oct. 1.

Contained in the Energy Research and Development Administration budget, the clean boiler fuel demonstration plant authorization level totals $91,000,000 with the new request and the previous authorization of $41,000,000.

An appropriation of $30,000,000 pursuant to the authorization is sought for the project for project development and design work.

"I am pleased to see that the project is receiving the support it deserves," Rep. Price said in making the announcement.

M. L. Flinn heads county heart drive

Monroe L. Flinn, director of community affairs at the Granite City Steel Division, National Steel Corporation, will be Madison County chairman for the Illinois Heart Association 1976 Fund Drive.

George Key and Charles Rodell of GCS's sales staff were made co-chairmen with Flinn.

Although "Heart Sunday" is scheduled Feb. 29, the campaign actually takes place the entire month.

Flinn, a veteran employee at the steel company, is also a state representative in the Illinois General Assembly from the 57th District.

"Heart disease remains as our nation's number one killer," Flinn stated. "We must all pull together to make the 1976 fund drive a success so that the war on heart disease may continue," he added.

"All our celebrations will take place this year commemorating our country's 200th birthday. The best birthday gift we could give America is to see the light at the end of the tunnel in our long fight against heart disease."

Although 1975 figures are not yet available, 57 per cent of the deaths in Madison County during 1974 were caused by heart disease. Many causes of heart disease are still unknown, and the heart research program must continue.

Flinn said, "We must continue our public education program to make people aware that having heart disease isn't necessarily fatal. We must continue and expand the training program so that everyone has the opportunity to take the life-saving course."

George Teller, assistant Granite City chief of police is the Granite City-Madison-Venice city chairman for the 1976 Heart Fund Drive.

Nameoki pays bridge cost

The Nameoki Town Board has approved payment of $18,600 to Madison County as partial payment on a bridge the county constructed in State Park Place.

The board delayed paying the bill several times, indicating it wished to wait until sufficient motor fuel taxes were in the account to pay the full amount. Louis Whitsell, township supervisor, explained the payment represented nearly all of the balance due the county and the final $544 will be paid when additional motor fuel tax funds are received.

Whitsell warned the board that the balance in the township's municipal retirement fund is getting low and there is a possibility funds may have to be borrowed from other accounts to assure sufficient money in the retirement account.

Auditor Norman Hessler, chairman of the finance committee, reported work is beginning this week on the township budgets for this fiscal year. He asked if federal revenue sharing funds can be appropriated for a new van to be donated to the Pontoon

Beach branch of Coordinated Youth Services.

Whitsell said recent revenue sharing guidelines indicate the money may not be directly mixed with other federal grants. Since Coordinated Youth Services does receive some federal funds, Whitsell requested the board's attorney, H. Carl Runge Jr., to study the question and submit a written legal opinion whether the van can be purchased and then donated to the Pontoon branch.

An appraisal of the value of the town hall and its furnishings, prepared by Official Risk Insurance Co., was presented to the board and was referred to the finance committee to study.

It had been suggested the township may be able to save money by combining all of its insurance coverage under one agent.

A request was received from the new State Park Special Police Unit 32A for the board to purchase more uniforms, a radio, belts, gun holsters and other needed items from funds remaining which the township has earmarked for that department.

Runge said he feels legal bids should be sought for the purchase of all orders over $100 and competitive prices should be sought from several suppliers for items costing less than $100. The board instructed the department to prepare specifications for bidding on the larger items and to begin to seek prices on the smaller items.

Highway Commissioner Albert Bell agreed to post one-way signs on Courtenay Boulevard, and said he would consider placing more speed limit signs in Miracle Manor. He said there are state requirements about the placement of speed limit signs and a study may have to be completed before more signs are put up.

Auditor W. Les Adams and several of the residents present offered their thanks and congratulations to the township's rabies control officer for "the exceptional job he is doing."

Year of decision for local area YMCA

1976 is a year of decision for the YMCA, according to Harold Rudolph, executive director of the 'Y' who spoke to the Thursday noon meeting of the Optimist Club in the local YMCA.

Rudolph said the board and members of the 'Y' must decide one of six choices this year; to do nothing to the present building or program; remodel the current building; tear down the current building and build on the same site; maintain the present building and open satellite programs in west Granite City and Madison; close the present building and partially rebuild elsewhere with a limited program; or close and rebuild new at a different location.

The six alternatives are results of a study made by a long-range planning committee and from discussion by the board members, he said.

Fifty years ago the building cost $70,000 for construction; in 1956 another $110,000 was spent on the building and in 1974, $70,000 was spent for remodeling, according to the director. To replace the current building with a new one of similar size and facilities, it would cost $2 million, Rudolph said.

"With a 50-year-old building you have problems with wiring and plumbing; and this year I believe we will need to make a decision on our future," he said.

Optimist President David Brooks appointed John L. McDonald and Dr. F. Scott Hendrickson as co-chairmen to represent the Optimist in this year's joint Rotary-Optimist Camelot auction.

Three Optimists who joined the club during the month of January in the past were given special recognition. They are Henry D. Karandjeff, a member 38 years this January; Otto Romann, 31 years, and Hughes Blake, 20 years.

President Brooks announced that next Thursday the club will conduct an in-depth discussion on club matters such as attendance, meals, new members and programs.

Two youths caught after purse theft

Pontoon Beach police apprehended two boys, ages 14 and 15, at 5 p.m. Thursday following a purse snatching and referred them to the Pontoon Beach office of Coordinated Youth Services (CYS).

The youths admitted stealing a purse from Mrs. Eula Lively, 1677 Fourth St., Madison, who was shopping at a grocery store in Pontoon Beach. As she was opening her car in the store parking lot the boys reportedly grabbed the purse and ran.

Authorities said the youths are making restitution of the $190 in bills, and $15 in change that was in the purse.

Raw steel made in '75 totals 117 million tons

Domestic raw steel production approximated 117,000,000 tons during 1975, according to preliminary data of the American Iron and Steel Institute announced Friday.

During December, mills in this country poured 8,846,000 tons of steel, an increase of 137,000 tons over November's 8,709,000-ton output.

The 1975 production total was 20 per cent below the 145,720,000 tons produced in 1974, the second best production year recorded by the industry.

Of the 1975 total, 71,800,000 tons came from basic oxygen furnaces, 22,818,000 tons from electric furnaces, and 2,165,000 tons from open hearths. This is the first year in which electric furnaces outproduced open hearths, the once dominant producers of steel.

December's production included 5,746,000 tons from BOFs, 1,590,000 tons from electric furnaces and 1,510,000 tons from open hearths.

AIISI's steelmaking index, based on average 1967 production as 100, stood at 91.8 for all of 1975. The index for December 1975 was 81.9, compared with 83.3 for November 1975.

This is the last time AIISI will report its steelmaking index figure. In its place, the Institute will report the industry's rate of capacity utilization.

As noted, the largest domestic tonnage comes from basic oxygen furnaces, which accounted for nearly 72 million tons of steel out of a total of 117 million tons produced in 1975.

The relatively new basic oxygen process has gained leadership over the open hearth method since 1970 because of its ability to produce up to 350-ton heats in less than an hour.

Electric furnaces have been increasing their importance in steel output for decades and have traditionally been used in producing specialty steels.

One of the major factors in making electric arc furnaces economically competitive as high-tonnage producers of carbon steel is the increased size of the units.

Presently, there are electric arc furnaces that can produce 200 tons or more per heat. In 1975, nearly 23 million tons of steel were produced in this type of furnace.

Open hearth furnaces were first built in the United States in the late 1800s, but have been developed to a high degree of sophistication since then.

For more than half a century, open hearth furnaces were the outstanding high-tonnage producers of steel. An open hearth furnace that will produce a fairly typical 350 tons of steel takes five to eight hours.

Though no longer the leading producer, open hearth furnaces continue to be a substantial factor in the steel industry, producing nearly a fifth of the steel made in 1975.

Wide optimism

distributing point include the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, whose plaster department is one of the means for employment of a large portion of the inhabitants.

"The Gilson Asphalt Company and the Interstate Coopers Company also maintain large factories here.

"The Venice Elevator, the car barns of the Alton, Granite and St. Louis Traction Company, the Illinois Traction Company's properties, (McKinley System) and the local street car systems are more of the sources of the livelihood for the citizens and evidences of the convenience of the city from every standpoint as a suitable location for the important parts of great and growing industrial associations.

"The terminal yards of the Chicago & Alton Railroad on the west portion of the city, the switching and general yards of the Merchants Bridge Terminal Railroad in the eastern section, the main lines of the C. C. & St. L. (Big Four), the Wabash Railroad (east), the Chicago, Peoria and St. Louis (bluff line), Toledo St. Louis and Western (Cloverleaf), the great Illinois Central System, the St. Louis Troy and Eastern Railroad, passing through the city and the connecting lines of the Southern Railway, the belt line of the Wiggins Ferry Company and many other leased lines, all warrant the location here of great industrial enterprises and show the superior railroad facilities which first add to the greatness of a city and make its expansion possible.

"The Electric Interurban Railroads which cross and re-cross the city maintain transfer points which make it possible to reach any part of the city for one fare, the terminus of the great Illinois Traction System, (McKinley System) which now operates over 500 miles of the finest and best equipped electric interurban road in the states of Illinois and Indiana, and the location of the St. Louis Electric Bridge across the Mississippi River at this point, where all the Illinois electric roads must cross into Missouri, will carry all the shoppers from Central Illinois, and the travelers to the points through the heart of the city.

"The bridge which is now building will be complete in about 18 months and will represent the finest electric railroad engineering work ever done.

"It must eventually be the means of access for all the electric roads entering St. Louis, and it naturally follows that the stockman and the buyer of livestock, and the great packing industry will make this the end of their journey instead of continuing to the expensive and crowded city beyond.

"These conditions will mean the expenditures of millions of dollars annually at Venice, which now helps to swell the congestion and create discomfort just across the growing industrial associations.

"Then too, the vegetable and truck gardeners will find the low rates of the electric railway acceptable to them as making the transportation of their offering by the fast freight possible in small quantity.

"The wise commission men and merchants of St. Louis will come to Venice to buy the same when fresh, before they have been handled several times or subjected to the serious delays of transfer, which being ever so quick are detrimental to the sanitary condition of goods.

"But even these superior and up-to-date market facilities do not make Venice a marketing place merely.

"Of course, they help to promote general welfare, but the four churches, parochial school, two large brick public schools and two other schools which the city boasts, give ample opportunity for the cultivation of moral and mental faculties and a healthy association of the residents for social purposes, as well as the education of the future citizens of the city.

"The parochial school is a large and imposing edifice situated near the center of the city, and is conducted under the direction of the Ursuline Sisters by whose loving care and constant attention to details, it has prospered, and has become one of the creditable institutions of the city.

"The Catholic church is equally helpful and uplifting, and nothing that is required to complete the rites of the church and its beautiful ceremonies has been overlooked or denied to it.

"Under the able and humane direction of Father Kaenders, it has been one continual source of good for the large number of regular attendants and adherents.

"Venice also has three other religious edifices, any of which might be taken as an example of the sincerity of purpose and integrity of the congregation for the betterment of themselves and their dependents.

"The regular services are always conducted in a spirit of righteousness and charity.

"To lighten the ways of the traveler, whether he is bound home from church or lodge or from more strenuous duties, the city has provided 60 arc lights which are electrically operated and placed at the intersection of the streets and highways.

"Each of these lights is equal to two thousand candlepower, and of the latest and most improved kind, and under its kindly rays the city is assured of the best protection for life or limb during the darkness of the night.

"The complete piping of the city to supply the citizens with water has been accomplished in a most satisfactory manner.

"The many hydrants and openings to these pipes assure a clean and sanitary condition anywhere, as well as ample water supply for fire protection, and to meet the daily requirements of home life, and the necessities of the business section of the city.

"Two fire companies are ever in readiness to answer the call to duty, with merciless foe, and their experiences and service since their inauguration would not only throw credit upon the department, but assuredly add something to the history of the city, and give vent to a new unknown valour of some of its best citizens.

"One of these companies is located at the north section and the other in the southern part of the city, making the protection about equal to all interests at all times, and making possible low insurance rates on property and on personal effects.

"The street department has certainly made itself conspicuous in the manner it has attended to the conveniences and safety of the streets of the city, all of which are kept

Foster homes sought Seek more bike routes

The Illinois Department of Children and Family Services is recruiting specialized foster parents to act as emergency receiving homes for department wards between the ages of 0 and 18.

Emergency homes care for children on a short-term basis until longer-term foster homes are available, or until the children can return home.

"Emergency foster parents deal with a lot of stress," according to Al Koch of the department's Resource Development Team. "They are expected to accept all kids referred on a 24-hour basis and to keep them for up to 30 days."

Specialized emergency foster parents are required to cope with a constant turnover of children. "Some may care for up to 80 kids in one year," according to Al Schebera of the department's Granite City field office.

Recognizing that emergency foster care is a difficult task, the department pays emergency foster parents $100 per month for each available bed space in the home. This amount is paid whether or not a child is currently using the space and is in addition to a boarding fee that is paid for each child.

The department also pays the cost of medical, dental, and pharmaceutical services for its wards.

Those wanting more information about the department or its programs may call Koch of the Alton Field Office at 462-2941 or Schebera of the Granite City field office at 878-8985.

Lee Epperson, 66, of 2841 B St., Ill. for six months, died at 2:30 p.m. Thursday at St. Elizabeth Hospital. He had been hospitalized 11 days.

A native of Missouri, he resided in Granite City 35 years. Mr. Epperson was employed 20 years as a maintenance man at A. O. Smith Corp., prior to his retirement a year and half ago.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Myrtle Epperson; two daughters, Mrs. Don (Isa) Williams of Lafayette, Ind. and Mrs. Travis (Erma Lee) Rash of Granite City; four sons, Harry and Harold Gene Briggs, both of Granite City, Calvin and Don Epperson, both of California; one brother Calvin Epperson of Glen Carbon, and seven grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Saturday. Details are given in the obituary column.

Duane Rankin and David Painter, members of the host church, will be featured speakers at the meeting, it was announced.

William E. Whitlock, of the Illinois Transportation Department's Division of Traffic Safety met last week with State Sen. Sam Vadalabene (D-Edwardsville) and George R. Arnold, associate professor of engineering at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, to review progress of a bicycle feasibility study.

Prof. Arnold is project director of the study, which enables the City of Edwardsville in conjunction with SIUE to conduct a feasibility study for the establishment of bicycle routes.

The project is funded in part from federal funds made available to the state under provisions of the Federal Highway Safety Act. Whitlock emphasized in his discussion that the funds cannot be used for design, construction or maintenance programs.

Primary objectives of the research project are to determine the extent of bicycle usage, identify educational needs and opportunities relative to bicycling, enumerate methods and benefits of bicycle registration, determine the most appropriate routes for designated bikeways, estimate costs of developing the routes, recommend safety measures to reduce accidents and prepare for an expanded bikeway program.

In addition to the project, Whitlock discussed with Vadalabene a "report to legislators" speech has been provided to all members of the General Assembly. The report provides information relative to highway safety programs and includes a listing of all traffic safety projects funded in the 56th Legislative District since 1968.

Meat Saturday on high school plan

A public meeting will be held at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at Concordia Lutheran Church, 2201 Grand Ave., to discuss the feasibility of establishing a Lutheran High School in the Madison-St. Clair counties.

Don Cochran, a member of Holy Cross Lutheran Church in Collinsville, serves as chairman of the committee.

The board agreed to allow three schools to participate in a national school safety study, being conducted by the National Institute of Education.

Vandalism, personal attacks and theft will be among the items considered in the study which will attempt to identify problem areas and make recommendations for making schools safer.

The study will be conducted at GCHS South in March, Prather Junior High School in April and Logan Elementary School in May. Professionals will gather data in the schools while all the principals and some teachers will be requested to fill out questionnaires. Some students also may be asked to complete questionnaires.

Ellis B. Herring, chairman of the March of Dimes for Granite City, was granted permission to give students in the elementary schools and junior high schools envelopes for donations. He also was allowed to ask high school students to volunteer for a Walk-A-Thon.

Board members were invited

Portable classrooms to be sold

The Granite City Board of Education has declared four portable classrooms at elementary schools as surplus and is offering three of the buildings to any school district willing to pay for the moving cost.

One building is being taken by the St. Liberty School District in St. Clair County and the move is being watched by other districts to determine the cost of moving the buildings as well as showing whether the 10 year old buildings can be moved without damaging them.

The board voted to declare two portable classroom buildings at Logan School and two at Washington School as surplus and to offer them to any district which wants to move them.

The buildings belong to the federal government and were purchased at about $7,500 each with Title I grant funds. Since the titles remain with the Title I program, they can be transferred from one district to another, without having to be sold.

Dale C. Rea, assistant to the superintendent of the Granite City public schools, told the board the district will keep two buildings at Emerson School which are in use, and two at Webster School, one of which is being used. The other at Webster should be kept in case of future need.

He cited declining enrollment which allowed most Title I money for reading classes to be moved into the school buildings and allowed all pre-school classes to be moved into the former Logan School Annex building the last few years.

In other business the board has approved a recommendation from its public participation committee on public participation at board meetings. It was noted that requests to appear before the board should be made to the superintendent at least five days before the meeting date.

The board reserves the right to deny any request to be heard, and to limit the length of any presentation, according to the new policy.

All board meetings shall be open to the public, except for executive sessions to discuss personnel, land acquisition or other items specified in state law as being allowed in executive sessions.

Board members were invited to join two administrators at the Illinois Association of School Boards' workshop on legal problems held Friday in Springfield.

Permission was granted to Miss Barbara Kerch, director of women's athletics, to attend the national convention of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation in Milwaukee, Wis., April 1 to April 6.

Gilbert Walmaley, principal at CHS North, and James Dumont, principal at CHS South were also granted permission to attend the National Association of Secondary School Principals annual convention in Washington, D.C., Feb. 13 through 18.

Necessary expenses were approved for those attending both conventions.

Board members also were invited to attend National School Board Association workshops: Feb. 13 to 15 in San Antonio, Tex., on fiscal accountability; Feb. 20 to 22 in New Orleans, La., on evaluation of the superintendent, staff and board; Feb. 27 to 29 in Phoenix, Ariz., on collective bargaining.

Also, March 12 and 13 in Chicago on discipline; March 13 and 14 in Chicago on alternatives in education; March 25 and 26 in Washington, D.C., on legal issues, and March 26, 27 and 28 in Washington, D.C., on advanced collective bargaining.

Authorization and necessary expenses were granted for two administrators and any board member wishing to attend any of the workshops.

Jobs accepted included more than $1,500 from the Lake School PTA to purchase teaching aids for the school, and teacher scoreboards for Granite City High School North from the Pepsi-Cola Co. and the North Boosters' Club.

Permission was granted to the Wilson School PTA to prepare a "memory book" of school activities during the 1975-76 school year. The board noted that the permission is granted for this year only. The books will cost students $1.50 per copy, with the additional cost being paid by the PTA.

Several groups were granted permission to use school district facilities, including: the Madison-St. Clair Tennis Association to host a tennis tournament at GCHS North, July 8 to 11; the YMCA to use Webster and Marshall gymnasium Jan. 19 to April 21 for a basketball program in conjunction with the Granite City Housing Authority.

Also, the National Association of Social Workers to use Johnson School for a Feb. 10 meeting; the GCHS South Boosters of the Fighting Warriors to use South's cafeteria for a Feb. 28 chili supper, and the Area Council of PTAs for its annual dinner in the South cafeteria Feb. 28.

Other survivors include her husband, Raymond J. Scheibel, two daughters, two brothers and three other sisters.

Funeral services were held Saturday morning at an Edwardsville funeral home.

HERITAGE HIGHLIGHTS BICENTENNIAL SERIES

General Oglethorpe

A Dream in Debtors' Prison...

□ In 1732 he was a Member of Parliament appointed to investigate conditions in British prisons. Standing in a London debtors' prison he was heartick as he looked at the people whose only crime was poverty. Suddenly, an idea struck him. The American Colonies desperately needed settlers...these poor but honest people needed a new start.

With friends he went to the Crown with a proposal for a new colony. King George the Second was delighted with the suggested name and a charter was granted for the establishment of Georgia.

Over a hundred English clergymen raised money for the expedition and in 1733 the first "debtors' prison" settlers arrived at the site of Savannah and started laying out the city in the last of the 13 American Colonies.

At their head was the man whose dream in a debtors' prison had come true...the father of Georgia...James Edward Oglethorpe.

SIU Press book sales top million

Professor Vernon Sternberg, director of the Southern Illinois University Press, was presented a plaque last week by Vice-President and Provost Andrew J. Kochman of SIU at Edwardsville in recognition of "30 years of outstanding service by the Press." Sternberg also was honored during a tea and open house held in the SIUE University Center.

Before being hired to organize the SIU Press at Carbondale, Sternberg was an associate editor for the University of Wisconsin Press.

At SIUE, he began as the director and only employee of an organization that squeezed out only $361 in book sales during its first six months.

Under his guidance, the Press has published over one million books. Now, about 50 new titles are published and about 100,000 books are sold annually. Ten per cent of the books published with the SIU Press imprint are sold overseas.

This sales volume puts the Press among the top university presses in the nation. The quality of its work has given the SIU Press an international reputation among scholars, Dr. Kochman said.

The SIU Press serves both the Carbondale and Edwardsville campuses. In 1972, an office of the Press was opened at SIUE to provide an opportunity for the faculty and others in this area to have a direct connection to the Press.

Tudor, a member of the original University Editorial Board, which became the University Press under Sternberg, said he has seen many changes in the Press over the years. He said that even the original idea of a University Press has been expanded.

The original idea of the SIU Press was to publish books that could not be published ordinarily," Tudor said. "These are usually scholarly books that do not have a large or ready market. The price of hearing requirements under state law, the three members of the board of review will begin this week to conduct individual sessions with each of the board members conducting hearings. Barton said the hearing testimony will be taken on tape recorders with the cases to be heard by the full three-member board during evenings.

He said that his office had received temporary legal sanction of such procedure from the state's attorney's office pending further investigation to determine whether one board member can conduct a hearing. The three members of the review board are Andy Gitchoff, chairman, Robert Coultas of Edwardsville and Gilbert Hall of Alton, all real estate brokers.

While Barton said no major assessment problems have resulted in the urban townships, completion of the assessment books so that tax rates may be extended for the county as a whole is necessary in all townships. A total assessment abstract must be sent to the Illinois Department of Revenue, Government Affairs for the entire county before the multiplier figure can be set.

A multiplier is a figure set by the state by which county assessments are multiplied to establish the assessment ratio required by the state. In recent years Madison county has had a multiplier of 1.0, which required no change in assessments set by county officials.

County Clerk Evelyn Bowles said her office is proceeding with some assessments in the completion of all the township books this year.

"If things continue the way they are now, it is probable the tax rate extensions cannot be completed before August," she said.

At the same time, Miss Bowles said she had been told by some assessment officials that it could be as late as October before tax rate extension work can be completed.

In either case, tax collections could be from two to four months later than usual. Tax agencies usually are in the need of funds early in the year and depend upon May or June tax collections to finance continued operations.

If tax collections are as late as predictions now say, most tax agencies would be forced into the sale of interest-bearing anticipation warrants to get them over the summer period until tax collections can be made.

Second youth guilty in Horvat death

A second East St. Louis teenager was found guilty Thursday of the Feb. 13, 1975, torture and murder of a former Granite City man, the severe beating of the man's wife and retarded son, and robbery.

A jury in Randolph County Circuit Court at Chester deliberated two hours and 35 minutes before returning a verdict against Ronnie Lee Cunningham, 18, of guilty of murder, armed robbery and two counts of aggravated battery. The charges carry a minimum sentence of 14 years in prison.

Jurors found he was one of three youths who forced their way into the East St. Louis home of George Horvat, 60, a former Granite City insurance salesman, and terrorized the family before bludgeoning Mr. Horvat to death. His facial bones were smashed and his hands crushed, among other injuries.

His wife, Laura, 60, who taught in the public schools in Granite City nearly 11 years, and the couple's retarded son, Lewis, 35, were severely beaten, sprayed with gold paint and covered with cooking oil, food and flour.

Sticks, metal pipes, a lamp and a heavy glass vase were used in the beatings as the youths took turns beating the Horvats while the others ransacked the home.

Eric's right ear was cut off and Mr. Horvat's right ear was badly cut.

Carl Wayne Wilson, 18, of East St. Louis, was found guilty Oct. 29, 1975, of murder and robbery in connection with the same case. No date for sentencing has been set.

A third suspect, Jasper Glenn, 17, also of East St. Louis, has waived a jury trial and his case was heard in a bench trial before Circuit Judge Carl Becker, who also was on the bench for the other two trials. Judge Becker has been withholding his verdict on Glenn, pending the outcome of the Cunningham trial. An announcement is expected soon.

Cunningham's trial was similar to Wilson's as evidence shown included a blood-stained lamp and a heavy glass vase used in the beatings.

A witness who testified against Wilson, Mrs. Jacqueline Spencer, also testified against Cunningham. She testified her home is near the Horvats' home and that Cunningham, Wilson and Glenn had been in her home "drinking wine and smoking marijuana" the night of the Horvat beatings.

She said the three teenagers were in the kitchen of her home when she heard Cunningham suggest the three go to "a honky's home." Cunningham also told the two he had "a master plan," Mrs. Spencer recalled, adding the three left her home minutes later.

Other witnesses included Illinois State Police Investigator Terry Delaney who testified he overheard Cunningham admit he had sprayed images of "death heads" on the walls of the Horvat home during the beatings, and East St. Louis Police Detective Rick Stone, who testified Cunningham had voluntarily signed a confession. Cunningham was the only defense witness called and told the jury he was threatened by police, who he said "were fast talkin' me," when he signed the confession.

He admitted being at the Spencer home, but denied making the statements and said when the three left there, he went home and to bed. The others walked toward the Horvat home, he testified.

Judge Becker gave Cunningham's attorney 30 days to file post-trial motions before sentencing.

Special registration periods scheduled this week at SIUE

Madison County residents who attend Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville can register on campus to vote in state elections. Evelyn Bowles, Madison County clerk, said registration will be held in two locations at SIUE this week. Students may register at Tower Lake Apartments Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 4 and 5, from 1 to 8 p.m. in Building 514, Apartment 1A.

The following week, registration will be held in the University Center, Tuesday, Wednesday, Feb. 10 and 11, from 12 noon until 7 p.m. In the past, there has only been registration in the Center, but this year, Miss Bowles said she thinks it is necessary to extend it to the apartments.

According to University records, more than 4,500 Madison County residents attend SIUE. Miss Bowles said anyone currently living in the county would be eligible to vote under the residency rules. "A person must be a resident of the state and the county for at least 30 days prior to voting to be eligible. Since the primary isn't until March 16, this will include everyone who is now living at Tower Lake and continues to do so until the voting date," she explained.

The Student Senate is sponsoring the voter registration in conjunction with Miss Bowles' office. Rob Roberts, senate president, is urging everyone to register and to vote.

"In a time when education is becoming costlier, yet more essential to everyone, more students should be concerned with who their elected officials are. It's the legislators who make the decisions about tuition costs, but it's the people who elect the legislators, and that's where the student vote counts," Roberts said.

A statewide voter registration drive is being conducted by the Association of Illinois Student Governments (AISG), of which the SIUE Student Senate is a member. Roberts said he hopes the SIUE students will set an example for students at other universities by turning out in full force to register and vote.

Emergency radio team hears tornado expert

D. Joseph Pedigo of the National Weather Service met last week with the CBERTS (Civil Defense Emergency Radio Team) and presented a program on tornado precautions. Pedigo showed slides of various cloud formations and developing tornado patterns. He described the difference between a "funnel" cloud and an actual approaching tornado, and explained the procedures to be taken during such an emergency. The CBERTS meeting was held in the Granite City Civil Defense Center, 1411 Nineteenth St. The guest speaker also showed filmed sequences of a tornado which struck Lubbock, Tex., and the subsequent actions taken by civil defense and weather service personnel. In the business session, the group planned a Feb. 14 supper for team members at George Lindsey's Family Steak House and a spring dance on May 1 at the VFW Hall in Granite City. Members learned of a program whereby all licensed CB radios may be registered and inscribed with an identification number to aid in their recovery, if stolen. Club officers presently are working with the Granite City Police Department to help reduce the number of CB radio thefts, now prevalent in this area. The registration will take place at Nameoki Village Shopping Center. The date will be announced at a later time, officers advised. Fourteen new members were inducted into the CBERTS to conclude the meeting. The CBERTS squad works closely with civil defense and the weather service when conditions call for a tornado alert, it was explained.

Ruling against service office

Illinois Attorney General William J. Scott issued an opinion last week that a "business service office" a Chicago Bank proposed to locate in a suburb is prohibited by law. Scott advised Richard K. Lignoul, commissioner of banks and trust companies, that the office proposed by the American National Bank and Trust Co. of Chicago constitutes a "branch bank," prohibited under Illinois Banking laws. Scott observed that officers admitted that the office in Elk Grove Village would "undoubtedly" generate loan requests as well as offering financial consulting services to businesses. Scott said the acknowledgment that loan requests would be generated through the office was "a decisive factor" in his defining the proposed facility as a branch bank.

LENNOX Gas Furnaces

24 HOUR SERVICE

Major crimes in Granite City during December decreased slightly below those in the same month of the previous year, as did the number of criminal cases solved by the Police Department, according to a report by Chief of Police Ronald Velzer.

Velzer reported a total of 266 cases in eight categories was reported during December, a decline of 13 below the 279 such cases reported in December 1974.

Police cleared 47 of the December cases, down two from 49 solved in December 1974, the report showed.

While December larceny cases increased to 84, up 20 from 64 in December 1974, and auto theft cases increased by seven to a total of 20, substantial decreases were shown in the number of burglaries and auto burglary cases.

The report listed a total of 73 burglaries in December, down from 104 in the same month of the previous year, and a total of 65 auto burglaries, down ten from 75 the previous year. Assault cases also dropped from 17 to 14.

A total of seven robberies was reported in December, up three, along with two homicides, up one. There was one forcible rape case in December, the same number as in December 1974.

In addition to the 47 cases of all types cleared by arrests in December, police also cleared 73 other pending cases for a total of 120 cases solved in December. This compares with clearance of 49 December cases in 1974 along with 75 other cases pending at that time for a total of 124 cases cleared.

Granite City had no fatal accidents during December, compared with one in December 1974, and recorded declines in both the number of injury accidents, 29, and property damage accidents, 143, for a total of 172 accidents of all kinds.

During December 1974, the city recorded one fatal accident, 34 injury accidents and 152 property damage accidents. Forty-one persons were injured in December accidents, compared with 53 in December 1974.

The Police Department made 125 traffic arrests in December down from 155, and 133 other arrests, down from 140. Police filed 39 additional charges in December for a total of 297 charges on all arrests.

The report showed six persons died in traffic accidents during the 12 months of 1975, compared with five during 1974.

Annette Graebe, director of the University Information Center, and Fred Zurbelle, associate professor in the physics department, were elected to serve as members of the board.

Other members of the board include John Rodman, Joe Pival, Norbert Schmitt and the past president of the club, Warren Brown.

ISSUED CHARTER

The state of Illinois has issued a Domestic Corporation Charter to Dr. Robert H. Halley to own and operate an establishment for the diagnosis and treatment of human ailments, specializing in urinary and other malfunctions. The charter lists 1,000 shares of common stock with $10 par value each. Dr. Halley, 3165 Myrtle Ave., is correspondent.

Candidate favors reopening governor 'action offices'

Mrs. Joanne Alter, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Illinois lieutenant governor, said last week that as lieutenant governor she would establish citizen advocate offices "to cut through the bureaucratic red tape for thousands of people each year."

In a news conference, she said that, before the legislature ended funding for the project, "the governor's action office in Marion handled 15,000 cases over a two-year period."

"We need to re-establish that kind of service in Southern Illinois and throughout the state, staffed by local people and equipped with toll-free telephone numbers so anyone can call and get action from his or her state government," she said.

Mrs. Alter said her basic priority as lieutenant governor would be "helping make sure Illinois taxpayers get the government services that are due them. I will be able to do that," she said, "because, unlike my opponent, I want the job."

She said her primary opponent "came to Carbondale last fall to say he wanted to be secretary of state, not lieutenant governor. Before that, he said he wanted to run for governor."

"Finally, he was ordered by Mayor Daley to run for lieutenant governor. Obedience to a political machine should not qualify anyone for political office," Mrs. Alter said.

"Southern Illinois is important to me, not only in terms of my campaign but also in continuing the efforts of Dan Walker's administration in working to meet the needs of people in every part of the state.

"I intend to use the influence of the lieutenant governor's office to attract new business and jobs to the state. With the developing coal industry in Southern Illinois, there will be extra incentives for businesses and industry to locate near this new source of energy."

Warriors lead early but basketball Steelers triumph, 64-48

BATTLE OF THE GIANTS during North's 64-48 basketball victory over GCHS South Thursday night in the Memorial Gymnasium. Rick Spurlock (54) of North's Steelers shoots the ball over the upraised hand of Jim Nolan (31) of South's Warriors. No. 10 of North High is Tim Luehmann.

Cheers from Granite City basketball fans who filled the Memorial Gymnasium Thursday night resounded from one side of the jam-packed building to the other as the Warriors and Steelers fought a close battle, won by North 64-48.

GCHS South's cagers led 12-7 at the conclusion of the first quarter and then GCHS North came from behind to lead 29-27 and 45-40 after the second and third periods.

Coach Bill Ohlendorf's North High Steelers prevailed with the aid of a 19-8 advantage in the final quarter.

Coach Bryan Wilkinson's Warriors took advantage of six rebound recoveries by South's Jim Nolan in less than three minutes of the first period to put eight points on the board on field goals by Rick Fancher, Nolan and John Slay.

The Steelers meanwhile missed five straight field goal attempts. Steeler Larry Schleicher tossed a free throw through the hoop, to put his squad on the scoreboard.

Warrior fouls then turned into Steeler points through the remainder of the first period.

North's Rick Spurlock hit on back-to-back free throws, and later put two more through the net before North collected its first two-point of the game as Tim Luehmann connected on a 21-footer from the top of the key. South's Fancher then hit a field goal.

Warrior domination of rebounding carried over into the second period. A basket by Slay, four by Nolan and a charity toss by Slay helped South before Steeler Luehmann sank three field goals.

Two baskets each by North's Rodney Wortham and Tom Schocker cut South's lead to two points with less than two minutes remaining before halftime.

A turn-around shot by Spurlock from between three defenders tied the game at 23-23. South slipped ahead again on a basket by Fancher.

North, hitting the 6-11 Spurlock with lofty aerial passes to avoid interceptions by South's defenders, got a game-tying basket with 50 seconds left in the second period.

The Steelers went ahead for the first time in the game on a sideline shot by Wortham.

Following a basket by South's Fancher, Steelers Jerry Barnett gave North its two-point halftime margin with seven seconds left.

Both sides put six field goals into the net in the third period, but again Luehmann's shooting accuracy and Spurlock's height proved advantageous for the Steelers.

Warrior fouls led to four North High points. When South's Nolan left the contest late in the third quarter on fouls, the Warriors' rebound recovery prospects decreased sharply.

Fancher's opening fourth-quarter basket narrowed North's margin to 45-42, but the offensive strategy by the Steelers to arch the ball to Spurlock — resulted in two quick field goals for a seven-point lead.

Following an exchange of baskets by South's Slay and North's Spurlock, two free throws by Fancher returned the deficit to five points.

A basket by Schocker and charity tosses by Barnett put the Steelers up 64-48.

Warrior Mike McRaven's shot made the score 56-48 with a little less than three minutes to play, still time enough for South to catch up.

But the Warriors missed four straight basket attempts and a free throw while North hit on three field goals in four attempts and tossed in two foul shots to close out the game with its biggest lead of the night.

The two schools were nearly even from the floor, North connecting on 24 of 51 and South on 22 of 49. At the foul line, the Steelers shot with 76 per cent accuracy, 16 of 21, and the Warriors 30 per cent, four of 13. South committed the most fouls, 19-16, and most turnovers, 17-11.

The Warriors pulled down three more rebounds than North, 25-23.

Spurlock garnered 25 points on nine of 16 field goal tries and seven charity tosses in pacing North to victory. Luehmann had 12 points, Wortham nine, Schocker and Barnett eight each and Schleicher two.

Fancher and Nolan each put 14 points on the scoreboard for the Warriors. Slay had 12, Frank Holmes four and McRaven and Terry Angle two each.

Though the competition was fierce on the court and under the baskets, when the game-ending buzzer sounded, players from both schools shook hands and voiced congratulations for the opponents' performances.

Marksmanship and rebounds a winning formula for Trojans

Fourteen different Madison High School cagers played a role Friday in defeating visiting St. Paul High School of Highland, 87-42.

It was the eighth straight victory for Madison, which now has a sparkling 16-2 win-loss record.

Rebounding was a decisive factor in the game, Madison garnering 50 and St. Paul 28.

The Trojans led 26-8, 44-19 and 71-21 at the quarters.

Madison's Jones brothers led the rebounding, Ron getting nine and Randall eight. From the floor, Madison shot 55 per cent, 41 of 72, with the Joneses providing double-figure scoring, Ron 12 and Randall 10 points.

St. Paul's Vikings shot only 28 per cent from the field, 16 of 57, but made 10 of 16 free throws to Madison's five of nine.

St. Paul committed the fewest fouls, 10-17, but turned the ball over 21 times. Madison made 10 turnovers.

Other than the two Joneses, Trojan pointmakers were Clayton Harris and DeRondy Coherrell with eight each, Joe Gulash and Anthony King seven each, Edwin Garrett, Anthony Canada and Keith King six each, Roy Williams, Kenny Boyd and Rodney Davis four each, Danny Bankhead three and Curtis Bradley, two points.

Rusick, Cougars win

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville tennis players opened their indoor-outdoor season Saturday with an 8-1 victory over a strong Illinois State University squad in a meet held at Belleville's Oakhill Indoor Courts.

Last season, Illinois State dealt the Cougars one of their biggest losses in a 17-8 campaign; they edged the Cougars, 5-4. This time, it wasn't even close.

SUE Coach Kent DeMars, has strengthened his forces this year with the addition of Arjun Fernando, 15-year-old sensation from Ceylon, and a transfer from Texas, sophomore Rick Harold, plus freshman Bill Rusick, Granite City, who finished fourth in the state tourney last year.

Brian Millar, from Canada, opened the SIUE blitz over Indiana State by winning the No. 1 singles match, 6-2, 6-4. Fernando won the No. 2 singles match over John Lebon with the loss of only one game. Rusick, regarded as an exciting player, was impressive as he rolled over Steve Pauly 6-2, 6-2 in the No. 3 singles match.

In doubles, Fernando and Rusick rolled to a 6-4, 6-0 win. The Cougar netters will invade Columbia, Mo., Saturday to battle the University of Missouri Tigers in matches starting at 5 p.m.

Big win by cage Cougars

Coach Jim Dudley's Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville basketball squad turned up for its St. Louis Arena game tonight at 6:15 with Indiana State University-Evanston with a 99-54 victory over Indiana University-Northwest at Gary Saturday afternoon.

The victory raised SIUE's record to 6-12 as the Cougars dominated the game from the field, making 22 of 43 of 82 shots from the floor.

The Cougar defense held Indiana-Northwest to only 52 shots, of which 21 went through the net. For the first time this season, in which the Cougars have played 17 of their 18 games on the road, SIUE saw more fouls called on their foes than on themselves, 22 to 19.

At the foul line, the Cougars connected on 13 of 18 chances while the losers made good 12 of 19.

John Strubberg, former St. Henry Prep of Bellevue star, regained his shooting eye and led the Cougars in scoring with 14 points. The 6-6 senior hit on nine of 14 chances from the floor, and pulled down seven rebounds.

Leading the winners in rebounding was a junior forward, Pete Catchings, with 15. He also contributed eight points.

North ahead 21-0, South then rallies for 25-23 mat victory

GCHS North wrestling mentor Walt Whitaker had hopes of becoming the first former matman of GCHS South's William Schmitt to return as a coach and beat a Schmitt squad Friday night as the two schools before a standing-room-only crowd at Steeler gymnasium. But South High won 25-23 after trailing 21-0.

"I had confidence in winning," said Whitaker, "but South's heavyweight, Mark Naglich, came through just as he had three times before in dual meets."

North's Kris Whelan (98 pounds) won 6-0 over Wally DeShon, North's Kris Whelan (105) won 16-2 over Barry Forshee, North's Dave Futch (112) won 16-5 over Sam Perkins, North's Jim Bledsoe (119) won 6-3 over Randy Basore, North's Matt McCullough (126) won 7-3 over Jay Fedora, and North's

Charles Taylor (132) won 8-6 over Darrell Hasty. Battling back to defeat the Steelers for a third straight season, GCHS South began chipping away at the big lead.

South's Jim Carmody (138) won 4-3 over John Sands, South's Ed Peter (143) won 13-5 over Ray Stuart, South's Steve Avedisian (155) won 19-4 over Steve Hartline, and Jerry Patterson (167) gained a 4-4 tie with Mark Widel as the Warriors cut North's lead to 23-14.

Steeler Widel had led on points for most of the third period, 3-2, but a reversal by Patterson led to the deadlock.

The Warriors narrowed North's margin to 23-14 when South's Kevin Wilson (185) won 13-1 over Jim Shemwell.

Heavyweight Naglich was ahead of his opponent Dennis Cavar 7-3 when the Steeler matman attempted to earn points on a takedown and was pinned by Naglich in 5:04.

The Steeler wrestlers bounced back from Friday's defeat to win 27-21 over Cahokia and 40-11 over Roxana on Saturday in triangle competition at GCHS North. The Steelers now have a 17-4 record.

Steeler results (with the Cahokia meet listed first) follow:

GCHS South matmen improved their season record to 20 wins against two losses, across the river Saturday afternoon, defeating Missouri's McCluer North High School 22-13.

Wally DeShon (98 pounds) lost a 16-7 decision and Barry Foster (105) lost 7-6. Sam Perkins (112) wrestled his foe to a 5-5 tie.

Randy Basore (119) won 10-7, Jay Fedora (126) 9-4, Darrell Hasty (132) 13-5 and Jim Carmody (138) 6-5.

Following Ed Peter's (143) 16-4 loss, the Warriors won the remaining bouts—Steve Avedisian (155) 4-0, Jerry Patterson (167) 9-1, Kevin Wilson (185) 23-0 and Heavyweight Mark Naglich on a pin in 3:24.

WARRIOR-STEELER WRESTLING competition Friday evening saw GCHS South rally for a 25-23 varsity win over GCHS North and also chalk up a 35-21 victory at the junior varsity level. North won the sophomore meet, 30-20. This 145-pound sophomore bout pitted together North's Doug Hayden, top, and South's Mike Thomas. Hayden, who gained a decision victory, was attempting to turn his opponent at this stage of their match.

South girls ousted by new state champs

Robin Deterding, a member of the Granite City High School South girls' volleyball team coached by Wilma Schulze, was chosen as a member of the all-star team of 1976 state girls' volleyball tournament played over the weekend at Normal.

The South team was eliminated in the first round Friday by Lyons of LaGrange 27-17 and 21-19; and LaGrange went on to become the state champions in the second annual Illinois High School Association volleyball state tournament.

Barrington-Chicago finished in second place.

Miss Deterding was commended for over-the-net shots which frequently resulted in points. She attempted 33 "spikes" in one game at the tournament.

South High earned its way into the state finals by defeating Red Bud in the super-sectional last Tuesday, 20-7 and 20-12. Red Bud was the defending super-sectional titlist from last year.

Members of the South team include Delores Doherty, Donna Macios, Tammie Dewey, Debbie Barnes, Danna Dewey, Paula Wise, Pam Meszaros, Theresa Hayes, Mary Livingston, Carla Knezewich and Robin Deterding.

They also will be available at the door the night of the game — at $2 for both adults and students.

13 Red Devils unlucky for impressive five

When Venice High School is mentioned, opponents who have faced the Red Devils thus far automatically think of a well-balanced offensive-defensive squad which has a 15-1 record, including 13 straight wins.

Venice lived up to all such expectations during the weekend, first with a 71-45 victory Friday at Gibault of Waterloo and then with a 92-63 home win Saturday over East St. Louis Assumption.

The Red Devil offense opened up a 10-0 lead early in the first period at Waterloo before the hosts could break the scoring ice. Venice's defense held Gibault to three field goals and a charity toss as the Devils earned a 16-5 lead at the end of the period.

A 39-19 halftime margin and a 55-25 third-quarter lead followed as the Devils ended all expense about the corners.

Venice, led by Jaffee Woolfork's 23 points, put in 31 field goals to Gibault's 16. Each side scored nine points from the foul line. Venice committed 16

Other than Woolfork's 22, James Crowder, Reggie Gardner and James Turner each scored 10 points. Ron Salmond had six, Larrik Arnold five, and Tim Walker and Ricky Salmond four each.

On its home court against Assumption Saturday, Venice's defense held Assumption to 20 or more points as the Red Devils led 22-17, 51-30 and 67-44 at the quarters.

As Venice posted a 26-9 fourth-period edge, Arnold scored four points and stole the ball from Assumption 10 times to keep the Red Devils offense in high gear.

Venice almost doubled Assumption's 21 field goals to 41, and each side netted 11 charity tosses. The visitors made the most fouls 13-11.

Crowder set the pace with 25 points and Woolfork and Arnold each scored 20.

Turner had 15 points, Gardner and Ricky Salmond, four each, Brian Mahlis and Venice Gowan two each and Walker, one.

Hannibal quintet edges South High in 47-46 contest

GCHS South's Jim Nolan displayed rebounding prowess Saturday at Hannibal, Mo., and his basket near the end of the first period deadlocked the score at 14-14. But Hannibal led after the next two quarters 28-23 and 38-29 and then held on for a 47-46 victory over the Warriors.

South High, now with a 3-15 record, nearly pulled the contest out of the fire late in the final period.

Leading 46-44 on two straight field goals by Nolan with less than a minute left to play, South saw Hannibal regain the lead on a three-point play, a basket and a charity toss awarded when it was ruled the player was fouled while shooting.

South was called for 24 fouls and Hannibal 16 during the contest.

Hopes of a possible Warrior victory soared with eight seconds remaining on the clock when Nolan stole a pass and rushed down the court. But a double-dribble call by an official turned the ball over to the hosts, who "froze" it to run out the clock.

Each team had 15 turnovers. The Warriors held an edge on field goals, 22-16, but the hosts connected for 15 charity tosses while South made only two in nine attempts.

Nolan set the pace with 12 of South's 36 rebounds. Hannibal pulled down 27.

Scoring for the Warriors were Nolan with 20, John Slay 10, Terry Angles five, Mike McRaven and Rick Fancher four each and Keith Champion, three.

830 pack hall at Mayor's Ball

About 830 persons packed the Meridian Hall of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville last night as the Granite City Bicentennial Commission kicked off its year's celebrations with the Granite City Mayor's Ball.

Strolling musicians, the East Bank Players, the Granite City High School South Band and the Joey Orchestra provided entertainment during the six-hour celebration, which started at 4 p.m. yesterday.

The large turnout exceeded all estimates and caused a few problems as extra tables had to be set up, the plates and hors d'oeuvres ran out early and drinking glasses became precious as gold, but the crowd quickly overcame the problems.

The dance floor, which remained crowded throughout most of the evening, was one sign that those in attendance enjoyed themselves.

One well-earned joke was overheard by many as an official confronted Mayor Paul Schuler, guest of honor, waved his hand over the capacity crowd and commented, "Isn't it terrible when the mayor throws a party and nobody shows up?"

The mixture of municipal officials, businessmen, political candidates, and city residents led Schuler to comment, "I am very happy to see such a large turnout tonight and am extremely pleased this Bicentennial celebration draws such a cross-section of our community. I hope this is the beginning of a great Bicentennial year to come."

Cong. Crane to address Madison County Lincoln Day dinner on Feb. 11

Madison County Republican Chairman Charlie O'Neil announced Friday that Congressman Philip M. Crane will be the featured speaker at this year's annual Republican Lincoln Day dinner.

The banquet will be held Wednesday, Feb. 11, beginning at 7 p.m. at the Lewis and Clark Restaurant, East Alton.

Congressman Crane, a Republican from Mount Prospect, is currently serving his fourth term in the United States House of Representatives. Prior to his election to Congress, he taught history at Indiana University for three years before joining the faculty of Bradley University in Peoria in 1963.

In 1967, he became director of schools at Westminster Academy in Northbrook, Ill., a position he held until his election to Congress in 1969. He is currently a trustee of Hillside College, a director of the Intercollegiate Studies Institute, a director of the American Conservative Union, and a member of the advisory board for the Young Americans for Freedom. Congressman Crane is married to the former Aylene Catherine Johnson of Chicago and has eight children. In Congress, Representative Crane is a member of the House Committee on Ways and Means and serves on its subcommittees on Health and Social Security. In addition to funding of land acquisition costs, with the decision on construction to come later.

"Among the benefits of immediate site approval will be an enhancement of the ability to finance necessary and reasonable improvements at Lambert."

"One of the Authority's financial advisers, Salomon Brothers, one of the nation's largest and most prestigious investment bankers and market makers in government securities—advises that without site approval, the fundamental uncertainty in the investment community as to the usefulness of Lambert may preclude financing of such improvements."

Readiness of an agency, such as the Authority, to assure that money borrowed for such improvements will be repaid can provide the necessary confidence among investors.

Legal points—The Missouri Airport Authority has challenged the secretary's legal authority to act on the Columbia-Waterloo application.

"While the St. Louis Metropolitan Area Airport Authority feels the positive aspects of its case are the central issue, this presented to the secretary legal memoranda showing that he clearly is empowered to make the decision requested in the application."

Car crashes into creek

Ralph A. Skaggs, 47, Caseyville, was injured when his westbound car smashed into a small bridge on State Aid Route 35 just before the Holiday Home Park and went into a creek at 7:50 a.m. Friday.

Skaggs had to be pulled from the car and the writer by two employees of the mobile home park, Patrick M. Judd, 3015 Nameoki Drive, and Robert Sherry, 2109 Miracle Ave.

He was taken by ambulance to Belleville Memorial Hospital, Belleville.

Columbia-Waterloo and Lambert, comparative airport delay costs, comparative construction and highway costs, and comparative liability for claims for noise pollution—shows that the transfer of air carrier operations from Lambert to Columbia-Waterloo should be made no later than 1988.

"Any further delays will impose higher costs on the airlines and the federal government—and ultimately on the passenger who pays for air service through tickets and various other charges."

"Environmental—as has been noted, the Parsons plan would add costly and illegal noise pollution problems, as well as generate greater air pollution in the metropolitan St. Louis interstate air quality region which is presently unable to meet the federal air quality standards for carbon monoxide, sulfur dioxide and hydrocarbons."

"The greater pollution would include hydrocarbons and nitrogen oxides which are very significant air pollutants."

"Institutional-financial—Costs of staying at Lambert to the year 2000 would be staggering."

"Among these costs would be approximately $129,600,000 borne by the federal and state governments for additional highway improvements, nearly all of which would not otherwise be needed."

"Also included would be the noise pollution claims and other costs, as well as cumulative airport delay costs to the airlines which would be some $241,700,000 between 1988 and 2000."

"Risks of decision—As Secretary Coleman weighs the Columbia-Waterloo application against the proposals to prove Lambert, the Authority specifically invites the secretary's office to verify the technical skill and expertise of all of the Authority's consultants in the areas for which they have been employed."

O'Neil said the congressman will begin his address following the evening banquet, at approximately 8:15 p.m.

Weight loss is called ideal goal for 1976

By SHIRLEY BRIGHT
BOODY
Registered Dietitian

The holidays are over but the memories linger on—and so do the results of feasting. Many people have more than holiday bills to pay. They also have to pay for overeating. Start the year by doing yourself a favor by getting rid of excess weight. Our resolves are always a little stronger at the beginning of the year so this is an ideal time to begin a program of better health and better living.

You must first decide you are sick and tired of being fat and develop a strong determination to do something about it. Don't put it off, because procrastination only produces more pounds. The trouble with waiting for tomorrow to diet is the wait produces another pound. You are the only person in the world that can take weight off your body and the task isn't going to be any easier next month.

If you were to take off only one pound each week, by summer you could be 25 to 30 pounds lighter. Isn't such a pleasant prospect enough of an incentive to start now? Make yourself No. 1 in your life and pamper yourself where it really counts, physical improvement. Grabbing for sweets and junk foods to appease emotions or in self-pity is childish and hurtful. If you improve your nutrition and decrease your weight you will be far better prepared to cope with problems. Believe me when I say this, because I have observed it in thousands of people.

The first step in a successful weight loss program must be an honest appraisal of the eating habits that caused your overweight. Analyze what you eat and how much each day. Do you eat candy, pastries and ice cream? Are you in the habit of eating potatoes and gravy? Do you take large helpings, or second helpings? Do you nibble during the day, and particularly during the evening? Do you skip breakfast, skip on lunch and gorge at dinner? People who eat a nutritious breakfast and lunch have more energy, are less apt to nibble and will eat a sensible amount at dinner.

Never go on a diet that eliminates any of the basic foods: protein, carbohydrate, or fat. The exception may be therapeutic diets for medical reasons prescribed by your doctor. The human body needs all the food elements, and they are best chosen from the four basic food groups: milk and dairy products; meat, fish and fowl; bread and cereals; vegetables and fruit.

Remember that the quantities of foods you have been in the habit of taking must be changed if you have become overweight. Do not eat large quantities of anything, just because it is low in calories. This is practicing gluttony and is a habit you must break. There is no such thing as "free" foods to appease gluttony. Eating habits must change to small quantities and when this new habit is established the desire to overeat will disappear.

THE SCHERMER BULLETIN
At the risk of being repetitious, we would like to review our Top Value Stamp Program. First of all, we find some of our customers who are not aware that Top Value will give Cash as well as gifts for filled stamp books. The cash value is $2.50 and the gift value is $3.50. We know that we do have customers on limited incomes who would prefer cash; if so, it is available. Second, some of our friends don't know where the Top Value Redemption store is. It is located in the Belleme Shopping Center near the Reese Drug Store (in the space where the Fabric Center used to be). Third, we need to remind everyone that the Redemption Center is not open on Monday. The hours on the other days are 11 'til 5. And last, but not least, if you are still holding Rainbow Stamps, full books can be redeemed at the TV store for merchandise only; cash redemptions may be obtained at our snack bar. Partially filled Rainbow Books can be combined with a partially filled TV book; if the two parts equal one full book, Top Value will accept the two partially filled books as equal to one TV book.

Willow Walk cats take honors in show

Three Willow Walk cats took honors in the Greater St. Louis Cat show held last week at the Electrical Workers Hall in St. Louis.

A total of 325 cats were entered in the show, many being brought here from such areas as Ontario, Canada, Florida and Texas. The majority of entries, however, came from the Midwest states.

To enable the animals in different classes of competition to be housed in the same number of cages, the show procedures were changed this year, with long-haired cats judged the first day and short-haired cats the following day.

Mrs. David Taylor of the Willow Walk Cattery, 148 Central Ave., Mitchell, this year showed only in the short-haired class. It is the first year she has not exhibited prize-winning felines of the long-haired variety.

Her entries included Willow Walk Wolfgang Amadeus, a chocolate point male Siamese who already has made premiership in a previous show and placed first in "Best of Color" in the premier class in all four rings.

In the same class, Willow Walk Catullus, a rare lilac point male Siamese, placed first and won in all four shows. Willow Walk Fleur, a seal point female Siamese, placed second.

Judging the cats were experts from San Leandro, Calif., Rochester, Minn., Houston, Tex., and Towson, Md.

A preview of the show was telecast on NBC-TV, Mrs. Taylor said.

American-style hotels increasing in Europe, Travelers Abroad told

Travelers Abroad met at Prather Junior High last week with President Roy Lynn presiding.

Ernest Rouland gave an account of his recent eight-day trip to Central Europe with 230 Shriners from Almad Temple and their wives and 118 Elks from Memphis, Tenn. Their DC-10 plane flew non-stop from Bangor, Maine, to Munich, Germany.

In the 1950's, Rouland said, a glimpse of an American dollar bill would excite any German, but that time has passed. Today the shopkeeper wants marks, not dollars. In the 50's Americans received over four marks for a dollar; today it is only 2.73 marks.

Although the dollar is on the decline, the American hotel chains and the American principles of hotel management are making rapid inroads all over Europe, Rouland noted.

Many among the tour group complained of the lack of "old world atmosphere," the passing of the old European hotel. "It's too much like going to Chicago," they commented.

The hotels may seem too much like America, but the German railways certainly do not, the speaker emphasized. At least 900 trains leave Munich every day and the service is superb, he said.

Rouland showed pictures of Hitler's former retreat and fortress, high above the old market town of Berchtesgaden. Located in the eastern Bavarian Alps, the area is so rocky and densely wooded that only a small fraction could be cleared for the erection of buildings.

In Switzerland the group toured the famous castle of Chillon, on the southern shore of Lake Geneva, which is immortalized in Lord Byron's poem "The Prisoner of Chillon." While showing pictures of the castle walls' splendor and the gloomy dungeon, Rouland read excerpts from Byron's poem.

In Geneva the tourists visited the European office of the United Nations, an impressive building which once housed the League of Nations in the 1920's.

Climaxing the tour was a cable car trip up Mount Blanc, the highest peak in the Alps. Visitors at the meeting were Mrs. Martha Meier and Mrs. Mervil Lonberger.

Rebekah instructions held

A school of instruction for newly-installed officers of Delray 706 Rebekah Lodge was held last week at the Odd Fellows Hall in Madison.

Instruction was given by Mrs. Daisy Burnett, district deputy president.

Manufacturers form political action group

Formation of a statewide "Manufacturers Political Action Committee"—MPAC—was announced Friday by Edmund B. Thornton, chairman of Ottawa Silica Co., Ottawa, and chairman of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association, which organized the group.

MPAC will solicit funds from industrial corporations and individuals in Illinois to be distributed to "selected candidates for the state legislature, regardless of party, who understand industry's problems in Illinois."

Twenty-five industrialists from throughout the state make up the policy-making committee. The 20 local associations that comprise the Illinois Industrial Council are cooperating in the political fund-raising venture.

Arthur E. MacQuilkin, president of Industrial Filter & Pump Manufacturing Co., Inc. of Cicero, is chairman of MPAC and Orville V. Bergren, president of the IMA, is secretary-treasurer.

Thornton said, "Industry took a real licking last session in the General Assembly when excessively costly amendments to the worker and unemployment compensation laws were passed by the General Assembly. A deteriorating business climate in Illinois is costing the state many needed industrial jobs."

General Steel sales, income remain stable

General Steel Industries, Inc., had net income of $4,765,000, or $1.89 per share of common stock, in 1975 compared with $4,651,000, or $1.85 per share, in 1974.

Some elderly may qualify for more funds

Financial assistance from the federal government for the elderly blind or disabled may be available to many people who do not know it, Cong. Melvin Price (Dem., 23rd Ill.) has advised area residents.

Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits of up to $157 for an individual or $236 for a couple are paid through the Social Security Administration as a regular cash income every month for those whose income from other sources do not cover basic living expenses, Cong. Price explained.

Applicants may own some personal and real property and still be eligible for SSI payments, and recipients may have some earnings and still receive benefits.

"Over four million people who are 65 or over or disabled currently receive SSI benefits," Rep. Price said, "but the Social Security Administration estimates that a number of eligible persons have never applied."

Because each claim is dependent upon a number of variables, I would urge all those who feel they might qualify to contact their local Social Security office and apply for Supplemental Security Income benefits."

Offices include one in Alton at 501 Belle Street (403-0011), and two in East St. Louis: at the Federal Building, 650 Missouri Avenue (274-2200) and 6710 State Street (398-5412) which serves Belleville, Caseyville, O'Fallon, Cahokia, Fairview Heights, Centerville and Scott, Air Force Base.

EQUAL CREDIT FOR WOMEN TO BE TOPIC

"Equal Credit Opportunity for Women" will be discussed by James Breidenbach of Lincoln Trail Bank at a meeting of the National Organization for Women at 1 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 7, at Lincoln Trail Bank in Fairview Heights.

Breidenbach, an assistant vice-president and loan officer, will explain the new federal law that attempts to prevent credit discrimination against women. The public will be invited to ask questions.

IP IT'S OUR BUSINESS TO SERVE YOU BETTER
ILLINOIS POWER COMPANY

1974, it was announced Thursday by W. Ashley Gray Jr., chairman and chief executive officer, and James A. Van Sant, president and chief operating officer.

GSI's net sales were $59,229,000 in 1975 compared with $59,484,000 in 1974.

The income statement for both years includes a tax credit representing partial realization of the company's tax loss carry-forward. GSI's earnings before the tax credit were $2,409,000, or 96 cents per share, in 1975, compared with $2,365,000, or 94 cents per share, in 1974.

Net income for 1975 also included a previously reported 13-cent gain on the disposal of the company's interest in a joint venture in Europe. For the fourth quarter of 1975, GSI had net income of $1,838,000, or 74 cents per share, compared with $1,105,000, or 44 cents per share, for the final three months of 1974. Net sales in the fourth quarter of 1975 were $14,660,000 compared with $15,107,000 in the same period in 1974.

Van Sant said the gain in 1975 fourth quarter earnings reflected improved results at two manufacturing divisions, and an unusual level of income at the GSI Engineering Division.

The backlog of orders for GSI's five manufacturing divisions was $18,854,000 at Dec. 31, 1975, compared with $30,757,000 a year earlier when a record high order backlog for GSI's industrial products reflected the then strong demand for capital goods.

The backlog two years ago, at Dec. 31, 1973, stood at the more normal level of $17,300,000, the company announced.

In 1975, $3,425,000 of indebtedness was repaid and at December 31, 1975 debt had been reduced to $13,315,000. A further debt repayment of $1,000,000 was made in January 1976, reducing the outstanding amount to $12,315,000.

The fourth quarter performance of GSI's National Rail plant near Pittsburgh reflected a modest but steady trend of improvement in the later months of 1975 in the operating rate at steel mills supplied by this division.

At GSI's Flex-O-Life Division, continuing success with reflectorized license plate systems and sales in the more profitable segment of the division's product lines accounted for the fourth quarter improvement.

Van Sant indicated that good results from cost reduction programs were a factor in maintaining a reasonable level of profits in a year of economic downturn. These profits were achieved in spite of growing costs for fuel and petroleum-related products, he said.

With the steel industry one of GSI's major customers, it is "encouraging to note that the improvement in steel demand which began to develop late in 1975 is continuing in the first quarter of 1976," the company announced.

The manufacturing divisions of General Steel Industries, Inc., provide a wide range of industrial and transportation safety products and services to such major markets as steel, mining, energy, petrochemicals and traffic safety. GSI's corporate headquarters is at 11 South Meramec, St. Louis.

OLYMPIA MARCHING BRASS BAND. The group will bring its version of authentic New Orleans music to SIUE Wednesday. A public concert is planned

New Orleans sound slated at university

Music lovers can strut, shuffle and prance along with the Olympia Marching Brass Band as it parades over the mall and through the halls of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Wednesday.

After a day of "strutting their stuff," the 10 band members will perform a concert of "New Orleans soul music" in Meridian Ballroom at 8:15 p.m. Both the parade and evening concert provide a chance to experience the authentic musical spirit of New Orleans, an SIUE spokesman said.

Olympia's arrangements are improvisations on jazz themes and exist solely in the musicians' heads. Their music is the music of New Orleans, and the stages for most of their performances are the streets of that city. When the band marches, crowds form a "second line," strutting and prancing in time to the music.

Among its other activities, the band plays and parades annually at the Sugar Bowl and Super Bowl games. In New York, it has played at Carnegie Hall and Philadelphia Hall. And it performs each year in Washington, D. C., for the Smithsonian Institute Festival on the Mall.

The band is being presented by the performing arts committee of the University Center Board. The program is the second in a series entitled "A Declaration of Entertainment," celebrating U. S. musical history.

Tickets for the evening concert—$3 for SIUE students and $4 for non-students—are available at the University Center ticket office.

Special events to mark Catholic School Week

Catholic School Week for 1976 will be observed in all Quad-City parochial schools with programs of events and activities beginning Feb. 8 and continuing through Feb. 14, principals of the schools announced Friday.

Sister Samuella, principal of St. Joseph School, reported the initial observance there will be held Monday, Feb. 9, with an 8 a.m. mass. All parents and residents are invited to attend the children's liturgy.

Parents are invited to visit the classrooms from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., with the exception of the lunch period, noon to 1 p.m., on Monday, Feb. 9, on Tuesday until noon and on Wednesday and Friday all day.

Teachers will attend a meeting on the Sacrament of Penance on Tuesday, Feb. 10, with the students to be dismissed at noon. Classes also will be dismissed on Thursday for Lincoln's birthday.

The principal reported a 15-minute film strip entitled "This School is About Life" will be shown following all masses on Sunday, Feb. 15, in the church basement.

St. Mary-St. Mark School attended by Madison and Venice students will open the week of events with a celebration at St. Mary's Church in Madison at the 11 a.m. mass on Feb. 8. The liturgical theme of "Count God In" will have patriotic overtones, including an account of the development of U.S. flags. Students, parents, teachers and adults of the parish will participate in the pledge of allegiance, followed by points of interest about the history of Catholic schools in the United States.

On Monday, Feb. 9, classes will emphasize service and brotherhood by a study of ancestors' customs and activities emphasizing concern and understanding of others.

Tuesday from 9 to 11:30 a.m. open house for parents and interested adults will be held at the school.

Wednesday, Feb. 11, open house again will be observed from 9 to 10:45 a.m. with an 11 a.m. celebration of eucharist at both St. Mary and St. Mark churches. Grade five students will have an all-American lunch.

for 8:15 that night in the Meridian ballroom of the University Center.

On Thursday, Feb. 12, a special patriotic liturgy will be held at 7:45 a.m. at St. Mary's Church and classes will be dismissed for Lincoln's birthday.

There will be special activities for the children in school on Friday, Feb. 13.

Sister Bernadette, school principal, announced the final program will be held at St. Mark's Church in Venice on Feb. 15 at 10 a.m. with the liturgical theme "Count God In" repeated for parents, students and teachers who also will join in thanksgiving for gifts enjoyed in church and country.

Sacred Heart School will begin its observance with a Science Fair on Sunday, Feb. 8, after the morning masses, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., Sister Mary Karla, principal, reported.

Students in grades one through eight will exhibit their projects, which will have been judged on Saturday. Open house will be held with the fair on Sunday and all parents are invited to visit the class rooms to view other academic endeavors of the pupils, the principal added.

The eighth-grade class will have coffee and donuts to sell in the cafeteria, along with homemade cakes and cookies. Proceeds from the sale will be used for the eighth-grade field trip.

Judges for the fair projects will include Sister Therese and Sister Stephanie, both of Our Lady Queen of Peace in Bethalto; Sister Samuella and Sister Mary Margaret said.

Banners also will be made by the students in conjunction with the art exhibit. A research on the history and development of Catholic schools will be prepared in a booklet with a front cover to illustrate the theme for the week, "Count God In-Choose Catholic Schools," Sister Mary Margaret said.

February best time for measles immunization

From now until the end of February is the opportune time for measles immunization.

Dr. Joyce Laslof, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health, explained that two elements have combined to make this the ideal time for having unprotected children immunized against measles.

"First," she said, "the incidence of measles cases reported in Illinois during the last half of 1975 was the lowest in five years. This means that there are currently fewer cases of the disease in Illinois; therefore less chance for susceptible children to contract the disease."

"Secondly," she continued, "the annual measles season is just beginning. Spring is the traditional measles season, with the number of cases reaching its peak in late April or early May. Children who are immunized within the next 30 days will be protected before the measles season begins."

Dr. Laslof advised that children one year of age and older should receive a measles vaccination now while the risk of contracting the disease is minimal.

"Measles is not the harmless childhood disease we once believed it to be," she explained. "Measles can, and often does, result in vision, hearing or mental deficiencies. Many children suffer life-long defects caused by measles."

"This is doubly tragic when you consider that children today do not have to get measles and risk suffering permanent blindness, deafness or mental retardation."

A simple vaccination can prevent measles and its tragic consequences. Measles immunization can be obtained from a private physician or at a local health department.

Dr. Laslof said that persons who cannot get to a private physician and live in an area where there is no local health department should contact the Illinois Department of Public Health, Immunization Program, 538 West Jefferson, Springfield, Illinois 62761. (Phone: 217-782-3300), about measles immunization.

REVIEWING SERVICES offered by the Madison Coordinated Youth Services (MCYS). Mayor Mike Sasyk, left, praised the work the fledgling agency has been doing to help both youth and parents with a wide

Madison officials praise coordinated youth program

Madison school leaders, city officials and parents are voicing approval and appreciation of the work being done in Madison by the staff of the Madison Coordinated Youth Services (MCYS) office that opened in Madison in December.

"I and the entire staff of the Madison school system are most pleased with the work being done by the Madison Coordinated Youth staff. They are working with several of our students on a counseling basis," Wade James, assistant superintendent of schools in Madison, said.

"They keep in continual touch with our central office in addition to the other schools. In a short period of time the MCYS staff has turned out to be a tremendous group."

A satellite office of the Coordinated Youth Services in Granite City, the MCYS office is located at 499 Madison Ave.

MCYS offers a wide variety of assistance to youth, their parents, the schools and law enforcement authorities working with juveniles.

The office is open from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m. Monday through Friday, and staff members may be reached at anytime by phoning 876-8430.

Operating the Madison office are J. Richard Hooks, counselor; Miss Vanessa Golightly, caseworker; Miss Cheryl Thomason, referral specialist, and Miss Nettie Hutson, secretary.

The Madison office opened primarily with monies from a grant by the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission (ILEC) and a $2,000 appropriation by the Madison City Council.

"Our services are open without charge to any youth or family having a problem, want help but just don't know where to turn," Hooks said.

"If we can't handle the problem with our staff we will find someone who can."

"All our services are kept in strict confidence and the youth in Madison and parents are invited to just drop in and get acquainted with us. Even if they don't have a problem, we'd welcome a visit," Hooks emphasized.

"Letting the people and youth of Madison know we exist and why we exist is one of our major problems. In the two short months we have been open the word seems to be getting around that we are ready, willing and able to help Madison youth and their families. "I or one of our staff would welcome the opportunity to speak to any Madison group, civic, religious or fraternal, that would like our services explained to them," Hooks concluded.

The primary services offered by the agency in Madison are counseling to aid youth in gaining insight into his personality and to redirect his behavior into acceptable forms. Counseling is done both individually, in a group or with the family, and is focused on personal problems, drug problems, or alcohol problems.

Casework will often serve as a mediation for the youth, and will include making home visits, intervening as a character witness in court and gathering background data to assist the youth.

Referrals to the Granite City office of CYC may be made for alternative school or tutoring programs, clothing programs and job development such as the job corps.

Referrals also are made to other social agencies offering a multitude of helpful services.

"We run into a lot of young boys and girls who are starting to get off the track a little and we don't want to arrest them if we can find alternatives," Donald Bridick, juvenile officer in Madison, said.

"We want, if we can, to find alternative solutions for young people rather than incarceration. Frequently as police we can spot a young person that looks like he or she is heading into serious trouble, and we can perhaps guide them over to Rick and the staff at CYC for help," Bridick commented.

"The staff at CYC is really interested in helping youth and this entire program a real asset to our city. I personally know the City Council will do all it can to help MCYS help our youth," Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk said.
